

UC

LIBRARY SEARCH

WHAT IS UC LIBRARY SEARCH?

UC Library Search is UCLA's new discovery tool. It will replace the UCLA Library Catalog as our local catalog, Melvyl as the University of California's united catalog, and our current article discovery tool, ArticlesPlus. It will allow for easy searching of both the UCLA Library holdings and the holdings of all UC Libraries at once.

UC Library Search will be available to students, faculty, staff and members of the public to search for materials. Check out of physical materials and full text access to online materials depends upon the policies of your individual campus.

WHAT SYSTEMS ARE CHANGING?

Current Name	Function	New Name
UCLA Library Catalog	Find local campus library resources in all formats (print & electronic)
Melvyl	Find resources at all UC libraries in all formats (print & electronic)
UC-eLinks	Link to the full text of articles or ebooks from databases or Google Scholar 	 Get it at UC Launches July-October 2021
Citation Linker	Find articles using a citation	 Citation Linker within UC Library Search
MyILL	View interlibrary loans and requests	 This service will transition over several months, through the end of 2021.
ArticlesPlus	Current article discovery tool

For more information on UCLA's transition see our UC Library Search website (library.ucla.edu/uc-library-search) or email us at uclibsearch@library.ucla.edu.

MOVING CHECKLIST

SAVE MELVYL LISTS

SAVE UCLA LIB BOOKBAG

NOTE SAVED SEARCHES

~~MAKE NEW ACCOUNT~~

UC Students, faculty and staff will automatically be able to use their Single Sign On username and password to log in to their new UC Library account. Currently checked out items will automatically transfer.

EXPECT SERVICE DISRUPTION

There will be no impact to library services during the transition to UC Library Search. You will still be able to borrow materials locally and UCLA will continue to build its collections.